

Virginia Providers of Ultrasound Services At No Cost to the Client

The Code of Virginia § 18.2-76 states the Virginia Department of Health must have a public list of statewide providers that offer a pregnant woman the opportunity to have an ultrasound and listen to the fetal heartbeat free of charge (no cost). Other requirements of the law are listed below.

- A pregnant woman seeking an abortion in Virginia must undergo fetal transabdominal ultrasound to determine the gestational age of the pregnancy. (§ 18.2-76 of the Code of Virginia)
  - The listed facilities provide, at no-cost an ultrasound and if feasible, fetal heart sounds.
- Ultrasound services must be provided by trained and qualified medical professionals under the supervision of a physician licensed in the Commonwealth. (§18.2-76 of the Code of Virginia)
  - The listed facilities have registered nurses or ultrasonographers trained and qualified to perform transabdominal ultrasound including providing fetal heart sounds.
  - The listed facilities have supervising physicians that have had ultrasound training and were verified as currently licensed to practice in the Commonwealth.
- These listed facilities report that women are offered the opportunity to view the ultrasound images and if feasible, depending upon gestational age hear fetal heart sounds, and a copy of the written report.
- The following facilities have consented to have their facility listed publicly and meet the listed requirements.
